Budget session from today, Cong yet to show its hand

ADITI PHADNIS
New Delhi, 30 January

It may not be smooth sailing, at least for the first week, for the government during the Budget Session that begins on Tuesday — the day of the Economic Survey — with President Droupadi Murmu's address to the joint sitting of Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha.

However, MPs feel that for the first time, the Congress is playing its cards close to its chest as no party leader is likely to be present at the meeting (they are unable to return from the Bharat Jodo Yatra in Srinagar).

"We need to assess what the Congress is going to do," an MP from Biju Janata Dal (BJD) said.

The session will have 27 sittings and continue till April 6 with a month-long recess to examine the Budget papers.

However, it will be dominated by demands from the Opposition for a discussion on the allegations against the Adani group. The Opposition says it wants to take up this issue because it involves public money of Life Insurance Corporation (LIC) and other government entities, judiciary-government relations and gags on the freedom of the press.

Interestingly, the Trinamool Congress (TMC) had apparently held a meeting with Assam chief minister Himanta Biswa Sarma so that the TMC could tone down its opposition to the BJP.

However, it was the TMC, which raised the question of a free press at the parliamentary affairs meeting on Monday.

The government, at the customary pre-session meeting with the Opposition, said it was willing to discuss every issue under the rules during the Budget Session. It sought the support of Opposition parties in running the proceedings smoothly.

Deputy leader of the

AT A GLANCE

Economic Survey to be presented today

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman will present the Union Budget on February 1

First part of the Budget session will conclude on February 14

Parliament will reconvene on March 12 for second part of the Budget session

House, Rajnath Singh, parliamentary affairs minister, Pralhad Joshi, leader of the Upper House, Piyush Goyal, minister of state (MoS), parliamentary affairs, Arjun Ram Meghwal and V Muraleedharan were among those present at the meeting held at Parliament house complex.

According to sources, the Mayawati-led Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) raised the issue of Chinese intrusions and asked for a discussion in Parliament. "To this, the government responded by pleading that the defence forces had acquitted themselves with great bravery and restraint on the border. All was well there, so the issue should be left alone," said an MP.

It was defence minister Rajnath Singh, who intervened, cutting into the clarification by the parliamentary affairs minister. However, Lok Sabha Congress MP Manish Tiwari has been protesting to hold a discussion on the matter (intrusions) for the past two sessions of Parliament

And, how the Congress is going to address the issue remains to be seen.

Aam Aadmi Party's (AAP's) Sanjay Singh, Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD)'s Manoj Jha, Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK), Left parties and others warned they would raise the Adani issue and seek a discussion in Parliament.

The YSR Congress demanded a nationwide caste-based economic Census at the meeting. It is necessary to know the economic status of backward castes who are "lagging behind" on social and development indicators, the party said.

YSR Congress leader Vijaysai Reddy said backward castes are over 50 per cent of the total population and the Census will help find their economic status. JD(U) and RJD had also demanded a caste Census.

BJD MP Sasmit Patra said, "Women's Reservation Bill is going to be a priority for BJD in this session. We've been pushing for the passage of the Bill. We'll also build consensus with like-minded parties to put pressure on the Centre to ensure that the Bill is passed."

He added that his party wanted a discussion on the free house-building scheme (Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana or PMAY) and the PM Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana (PMGKAY) that have specific timelines. "PMGKAY has been stopped, we want renewal and continual. Under the PMAY, houses are still to be constructed, sanctioned and they'll stop this programme by 2024. We'll demand that all pending houses should be completed and allocated," he added.

MPs had an open mind about the session. "Normally, it is the Congress that does the chest thumping and sets the tone for the session. But because the members were not there on Monday, we are wondering how they will behave. The Congress seems to be feeling rejuvenated and confident after the Bharat Jodo Yatra and believes it has got a fresh lease of life. How this is going to manifest in the ongoing session we're waiting to see.

Murmu speech to give report card on defence and security

AJAI SHUKLA
New Delhi, 30 January

President Droupadi Murmu will on Tuesday address Parliament on its first sitting of the calendar year. In this, the President will read out a speech, written for her by the government, listing its major policy priorities, including in defence and internal security.

A year after then President Ram Nath Kovind's January 31, 2022 speech, Murmu's speech will reveal the extent to which the government has implemented the pledges he made.

An analysis by PRS Legislative Research, a parliamentary research think tank, indicates that the government's implementation of defence and internal security pledges over the last year has been mixed.

The government's first policy announcement committed to rapidly promoting private sector and start-up firms working on indigenous solutions in defence and internal security.

Towards this, the defence ministry notified three "positive indigenisation lists" between August 2020 and April 2022. These comprised 310 defence items, the import of which will be incrementally embargoed in accordance with timelines that extended from 2020 out to 2028. As each item came onto the positive indigenisation list, Indian defence industries would get the opportunity to manufacture it, using their own design and development capabilities or adapting technologies developed by the Defence R&D Organisation (DRDO).

The defence ministry has also identified three positive indigenisation lists of sub-systems/assemblies/components. Of the 1,238 items in these lists, 265 have been indigenised as of January 27, 2023.

The success of these measures, says the defence ministry, is evident from the reduction of defence imports from 46 per cent to 36 per cent, between 2018-19 and 2021-22. Indigenous defence production, which was ₹84,643 crore in 2020-21, has risen in 2021-22 to ₹94,846 crore.

The government has also established two Defence Industrial Corridors in Uttar Pradesh and Tamil Nadu, with incentives for industry, start-ups, and academia. Additionally, 25 per cent of the defence R&D budget is earmarked for developing indigenous defence technology, and a web portal called SRIJAN now facilitates indigenisation of defence equipment.

The government's second policy announcement involved reorganising the Ordnance Factory Board (OFB) into seven Defence Public Sector undertakings (DPSUs) in October 2021.

To support these new production entities, the pending indents (orders) with the OFB were converted into deemed contracts worth ₹70,776 crore for the DPSUs for the next five years. Every year, 60 per cent of the value of the annual delivery plan of these DPSUs will be paid to them in advance by the military.

The government's third policy initiative involved holding a debate on maritime security after taking over the chair of the United Nations Security Council (UNSC).

Prime Minister Narendra Modi addressed the UNSC on the subject of enhancing maritime security on August 9, 2021. The Anti-Maritime Piracy Bill, 2019 was passed on December 2022, enabling Indian authorities to act against piracy on the high seas.

The government's fourth policy initiative involved launching a ₹28,000-crore Central Sector Scheme in February 2021 for the industrial development of Jammu and Kashmir.

The scheme, which intends to attract capital investment into Jammu & Kashmir, will remain in force till 2037. As of April 2022, the government has received investment proposals worth ₹51,000 crore.

There are four types of incentives under the scheme: (i) capital interest investment, (ii) capital interest subvention, (iii) goods and services tax linked incentive, and (iv) working capital interest subvention.

The government's fifth announcement is the reduction in the number of Naxalite-affected districts in the country from 126 to 70.

The central government approved a National Policy and Action Plan in 2015 to holistically address Left-wing extremism. This envisages a strategy of security-related measures, development interventions, and ensuring the rights and entitlements of local communities. Incidents of Maoist violence have reduced by 77 per cent from 2,213 in 2010, to 509 in 2021. The geographical spread of Naxalite-related violence has reduced with only 46 districts reporting violence in 2021, compared to 96 districts in 2010.

The Centre provides states affected by Maoists with funds for building capacity through schemes such as the security-related expenditure (SRE) scheme and the Special Infrastructure (SIS) scheme. SIS was approved in 2017, and as of March 2022, projects worth ₹371 crore have been sanctioned for strengthening special forces and special intelligence branches. A total of 250 fortified police stations worth ₹620 crore in Maoist-affected areas have also been sanctioned under the scheme.

The decline in spread of Left-wing extremism is also evident from the reduction of districts covered under the SRE Scheme, under which states have received ₹2,259 crore since 2014-15.
